ABSTRACT

1

2   Systems and techniques for providing content relevant to television programming

3   currently displayed to a viewer by determining television programming being viewed by a

4   viewer at a particular time; determining context information associated with the television

5   programming available for delivery to the viewer; making an intelligent selection from the 6   available context information; and delivering the selected context information to the viewer.

7

8